

“ Often people say something can't be done without them having tried. How do they know? I always want to see for myself. ”

Now a world-class mountaineer with a PhD and two award-winning books to his name, Andy Cave started out as a Yorkshire coalminer. He delivers speeches packed with humour and drama that capture the spirit and drive necessary to succeed when the stakes are high. His rousing, uplifting tale of overcoming adversity and exceeding expectations serves to energise and motivate audiences. The themes presented help people attain clarity, providing a fresh perspective on their organisational issues.

“ The parallels between events on the mountain and in our organisation were startling. It acted as a real catalyst for us to examine our own issues. ”

Alexion

“ Please thank Andy for his contribution in making our event a success. We have had wonderful feedback from our delegates, and Andy's presentation met our brief for the theme of our seminar perfectly! It was extremely interesting and, although there may be no converts to mountaineering within the audience, his stories were truly inspiring. It is a pleasure for us to work with people like Andy. ”

AXA Corporate Solutions

For more information or to book Andy

www.andycave.co.uk
andy@andycave.co.uk

“ A powerful testament to human strength, courage and the will to survive. A remarkable man. ”

Geographical Magazine

Andy's award-winning books make perfect gifts for delegates.

